

Instructional Innovation & Quality (IIQ)

All About Discovery!

Year End Report FY 14

IIQ (13.5 FTE) encompasses Academic Technology, Distance Education, Instructional Media Services, and the Online Course Improvement Program. The unit focuses on administration of and support for delivering education via non-traditional formats of ITV, blended, and online. See Appendix A.

IIQ supports New Mexico State University's strategic plan, Vision 20/20 (<http://plan.nmsu.edu>), as follows:

1. Academics and Graduate

Provide stellar programs, instruction, and student services to achieve timely graduation

1.B Promote, realize, and commend innovative and stellar teaching, learning, and leadership

1B1 Provost and Deans will provide educators with opportunities for professional development, training, mentoring, and networking supportive of exceptional teaching, learning, and leadership

Academic Technology (AT, 3.5 FTE, <http://learning.nmsu.edu>)

AT supports a variety of educational technologies including Canvas, EvaluationKit, Respondus, and i>clicker, with Adobe Connect implementation slated for Fall 2014. See Appendix B.

Highlights

- 77% of all academic courses use Canvas
- EvaluationKIT course evaluation and survey software integrated into Canvas
- Adobe Connect web conferencing system integrated into Canvas
- Course Development Camp Partnership with OCIP

Distance Education (DE, 2.5 FTE, <http://distance.nmsu.edu>)

DE provides prospective students a one-stop website to access information about the 37 degree programs offered in non-traditional formats. Website email inquiries are answered and directed to the appropriate contact person as needed. See Appendix C.

Highlights

- The cross-campus Online Infrastructure Task Force developed a series of recommendations for improvements in online services for students, faculty, and the institution.
- Financial support for exam proctoring services was secured from Course Delivery Fees.
- Several NMSU online degree programs received national recognition for quality and value.

Exam Proctoring (.5 FTE, <http://distance.nmsu.edu/current-students/proctored-exams/>)

Exam proctoring is a free DE service provided to Las Cruces-campus students taking an online course from another campus or institution; to students at a distance who need to have a proctored exam coordinated at an offsite location, and to non-NMSU students who need a proctored exam. See Appendix D.

Instructional Media Services (IMS, 2 FTE, <http://distance.nmsu.edu/faculty/instructional-media-services/>)

IMS is housed with DE and provides a variety of services for two-way video conferencing for distance education courses and meetings, video production services, and web conferencing. See Appendix D.

Highlights

- NMSU-LC campus’ use of two-way video conferencing and web conferencing using Adobe Connect (VOIP) continued to increase.
- In Spring 2014, NMSU groups & organizations used Adobe Connect to collaborate nationally and internationally.
- Three conference/classrooms were upgraded by installing two 80” HDTV screens in MH 85 & 169 and a 65” HDTV in MH 80’s conference room to enhance audience participation.

Online Course Improvement Program (OCIP, 4.5 FTE, <http://ocip.nmsu.edu>)

OCIP provides support for faculty doing blended and online courses. Opportunities include workshops, in depth professional development programs with stipends, faculty conference stipends, and an online resource center. OCIP supports NMSU Las Cruces Quality Matters. See Appendix F.

Highlights

- Launched the New2Online Program to support faculty wanting to move face-to-face or blended courses to online.
- Hosted a two-week Course Development Camp for faculty (May 27-29 and June 2-4) (<http://bit.ly/1sKD>)
- Submitted a nomination application for OCIP to be considered for the Quality Matters 2014 “Making a Difference for Students” Award. Did not receive award.
- Evaluation data shows program impact: improved course organization, applying Quality Matters Standards to other courses taught, increased alignment of course components, increased engagement and interactivity in online courses, and improved student learning.
