Statement modified to:
“The Committee for the Assessment of Student Learning across the Baccalaureate Experience (CASL-BE) strives to inspire a shared vision of student success at NMSU for the mutual benefit of all members of the NMSU community. We, as faculty, support the annual assessment of student learning across the baccalaureate experience and promote the use of assessment as a means to improve educational experiences for students. More specifically, we assess students’ self-awareness with respect to critical thinking, diversity, citizenship, creativity, academic preparedness, and other elements of the baccalaureate experience.”
 - b. Finalize wording of the e-mail introducing Faculty Survey, including teaser question in e-mail title
 - The link to the survey would precede the CASL-BE statement.
 - A link to the BE rubric would be at the bottom.
 - “Students don’t think that we value....”
 - c. Implementation of the survey - to be distributed in February

Subject line: What do your students think YOU value?

Do you ever wonder what your students are thinking? What do our students value? And what do the students think you value? Take the survey and share what you as faculty really value. Once you complete the survey you will find out what more than 300 juniors from NMSU said they valued, and what they believe you value. What is important to you that students get from their Baccalaureate Experience?
