5. Updates on GE initiatives - D. Smith gave an overall view of the statewide GE initiative. The philosophy going in is more skills based than knowledge based. What are essential skills we want our students to have, is one of the questions. Critical thinking is one of those skills. Skill and content areas will have to intersect. Twenty-two schools are involved in the initiative. What was the motivation to change the current model? Information shared on Complete College America as a possible influence for state GE changes.

6. New Business - N. Oretskin shared that College of Business students are being administered a test, based on the IDEA model by ETS to assess critical thinking.
